The Show Me State is home to some of the world's largest, most dynamic animal health and nutrition, biomedical, and plant science firms. The Kansas City region is known as America's Animal Health Corridor, accounting for more than 34 percent of the $16.8 billion global animal health industry. The region is home to more than 120 animal health companies, representing the largest concentration of these enterprises in the world.

April 28 - St. Louis
April 29 - Columbia
April 30 - Kansas City

The St. Louis region, also known as the St. Louis BioBelt, has an active and growing plant and medical sciences community, with nearly 400 enterprises and more than 15,000 employees. This cluster encompasses world-class research institutions; strong plant and medical sciences companies; as well as a fertile technology transfer, incubator and start-up environment.
